SJSG FRIDAY FLYER

A message from Mrs. Wall—Mathematics Lead Teacher

Last week, as a whole school, we supported Number day to raise funds for the NSPCC. The children had a fantastic time taking part in activities that ranged from bingo to a maths version of Who Wants to be a Millionaire. The children also made multiplication flowers and improved their Times Table Rock Stars profiles. Everyone had their favourite activity but, above all they developed an understanding and enjoyment of maths.

Days like these bring joy to both staff and children, the school staff appreciate all you do to support your children in taking part in these opportunities. We look forward to creating more fun like this, for and with your children in the near future.

World Book Day

World Book Day is celebrated on Thursday 7th March.

This will be a day where children are fully immersed in stories, and learning about the importance of books in our daily lives.

To mark the occasion we are asking that all children come to school dressed in night clothes. These need to be weather appropriate. Please see the images below to get some ideas.

We want to raise the profile of the importance of sharing bedtime stories with our children every day.

This is always such an enjoyable day and we cannot wait to celebrate a wonderful day of literature with everyone!

For more ideas of what you can do to support your child, here's a link to the World Book Day website:

There will be further details to follow, of how parents and families can be involved with the celebrating!

Important Date

Year 6 parents are invited to a SATs preparation session in Goldfinch Class on

Safer Internet Day

This week marked Safer Internet Day.

Making sure our children are safe online is of the utmost importance.

The below link has support and ideas of how best to keep your child safe when they are using technology:

Talk to your children about what they are accessing online, and make sure they understand how to keep themselves self.

Class teachers are always available to speak to, if you have a specific concern that you wish to discuss.

An exciting opportunity

If your child is in year 3, 4, 5 and 6 they are invited to enter the Bedford Junior Aquathlon on the morning of 24th March 2024 at Robinson Pool and Bedford Park.
